RIG 400/600/800LX: How to configure the headset to use Dolby Atmos.

1. On the home section go to Settings.

2. Go to Display & sound, then click on Audio output

餃 😑 TinnierGorgon68	Display & sound
Account Personalization	f Video output
Network System	( 小)) Volume
Display & sound Kinect & devices	Audio output
Power & startup Preferences
TV & OneGuide Disc & Blu-ray
Ease of Access

3. On Headset Audio look for Headset format: Dolby Atmos for headphones and select it.

peaker audio		Headset audio
		Headset format Dolby Atmos for headphones	$\sim$	If you change your audio settings, be sure to recalibrate your Kinect in Settings > Kinect & devices > Kinect > Kinect doesn't hear me.
		Using HDMI or optical audio headset		When using this Headset format, be sure to turn off any sound enhancements on the headset itself.
All audio is optimized fo	r headsets right	now. Once you unplug your head	dset, it'l	ll go back to normal.
All audio is optimized fo	r headsets right	now. Once you unplug your head	dset, it'l	ll go back to normal.
All audio is optimized fo	r headsets right	now. Once you unplug your hear	dset, it'l	ll go back to normal.
All audio is optimized fo	r headsets right	now. Once you unplug your hea	dset, it'l	ll go back to normal.

4. A message will appear indicating that the audio is optimized and the headset will be ready to use.

Speaker audio		Stereo uncompressed
		Windows Sonic for Headphones
	$\Box$	Dolby Atmos for headphones	When using this Headset format, be sure to turn off any sound enhancements on the headset itself.